'52 Nebraska Income Sets Record

State's Total Hits Peak $2.15 Billion

$1,566 Is Highest Per Capita Mark, But Cost-Of-Living Up Too

Total income of Nebraskans soared to its highest point in history in 1952, according to a survey bulletin prepared by the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration.

The total — a whopping $2.15 billion — amounted to the largest per capita income, $1,566, in history. This compares with $1,512 for 1951. Income per farm was $5,439 higher than 1951 but lower than 1950 and the peak of 1949, which had an income per farm of $5,936.

The bulletin pointed out that although the per capita income was greater than it had ever been before, the purchasing power was not. When the per capita income is adjusted to obtain the purchasing power, 1952's figure of $1,380 was 1.3 per cent higher than 1951 but down from 1950.

26 Attend Burd School Reunion

Twenty-six persons who attended Burd School District No. 38 more than 50 years ago met for their eighth annual reunion Sunday afternoon at the school house.

Thos. Berg of Lincoln was elected president of the 50-Year Club. A. H. Lohmeyer of Rt. 6, Lincoln, is the new vice president and Katherine Pickell, also of Rt. 6, is secretary-treasurer. Elmer Davis of Denver, Mrs. Isma Bowker of Pleasant Dale and Robert Pickell Jr. of Lincoln were elected to the governing board.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cady of Kremlin, Mont., and former schoolmates from Ashland, Omaha and Lincoln attend the reunion.

The school is located 10 and one-half miles west and one-half mile south of Lincoln.

Balky POWs Will Be Interviewed Singly

PANMUNJOM (Monday) (INS) — An Indian spokesman for the neutral nations repatriation commission said today that "persuaders" teams would have the right to talk to non-repatriate war captives one by one in efforts to convince them to accept repatriation.

The decision clarified the one main point in dispute between the Communists and the U.N. command on the rules for the 90-day "explanation" period for Allied and Red captives opposed to repatriation.

It was a victory for the Communists, who had insisted the right to talk to anti-Red Chinese and North Korean prisoners individually. The U.N. command opposed such a procedure, contending it would give the Reds an opportunity to intimidate the balky prisoners.

Settlement of the problem left the way clear for the beginning of explanations next Thursday, five days later than originally scheduled.

The Reds received 65 Chinese switchbacks from neutral custody Sunday and called a "press conference" dominated by Red Correspondent Wilfred Burchett.

Singled Out Before

The former captives screamed charges that they had been forcibly instructed by special Chinese Nationalist agents on what to say, and repeated charges that they had been branded and tattooed.

However, fellow Chinese captives had previously singled out the 65 Chinese as Communist agitators who purposely declined repatriation in order to discredit the U.N. Command.

New $600,000 Nebraska State Historical Society Building Is Dedicated

A long-standing dream of hundreds of Nebraskans became a reality Sunday as the new Nebraska State Historical Society Building was dedicated.

Gov. Robert Crosby (left in first photo) cuts the ribbon to open the $600,000 building to the public shortly after Society President James E. Lawrence presented the building to the state. Looking on as Crosby cuts the ribbon are Nathan Gold, retiring treasurer of the society; Lawrence, and James dedication and toured the building later standing in the foreground. Aged high-wheeled bicycles are the center of attraction for many people in

Non-Strategic Trade With Red China Is On Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign Operations Director Harold Stassen reported Sunday a big increase in trade between the West and Communist China, but asserted it was not necessarily harmful.

At the same time, he stated there had been "considerable improvement" in the free world's drive to stop strategic materials of a war-making potential from moving to countries behind the Iron Curtain.

Stassen's statement was contained in a 96-page report to Congress on world-wide enforcement of strategic trade controls under the Mutual Defense Assistance Control Act the Battle Act.

While reporting an increase in non-strategic trade, Stassen said the Western nations have tightened shipping controls and expanded their list of banned strategic items — especially on goods bound for Communist China.

Stassen disclosed that non-strategic shipments to the Chinese Reds would increase nearly 50 per cent over 1952 if trade continues at the same rate as the first few months of 1953.

Stassen's report, which covers the first six months of the year, estimated that non-strategic shipments to Red China would total around $375 million in 1952.

"The 1953 increase was not due to a relaxation of strategic trade controls," he emphasized. "The strategic embargo was being tightened in the first half of 1953, not relaxed. The increase was in non-strategic goods."

"The main reason for it seems to be the changed attitude of the Chinese Communists who had dropped their reluctance to deal with the West and were placing more and bigger orders for the kind of goods that the free governments would have been willing to ship all along."

"This dry season has demonstrated the diversity of public benefits these multiple-purpose dams provide in low water periods as well as in reduction of tremendously destructive floods," Gen. Potter added.

For example, he said, the volume of water passing Omaha now is 34,000 cubic feet per second, providing a river stage of 5.5 feet. Without stored water from Fort Peck and the re-regulation by the newly completed Fort Randall project the river stage would be about 1 foot with a flow of about 9,000 cubic feet per second.

That would be, he went on, about two-tenths of a foot above what joint studies of the United States Public Health Service and the Missouri Basin states found to be the "absolute minimum" for sanitation and municipal water supply.

Generally the same situation prevails at Sioux City, Ia., Kansas City and Herman, Mo., he said.

At Kansas City, he noted, the Missouri, without reservoir releases, would now be below the minimum safe level for stream sanitation. Gen. Potter said nearly 70 per cent of the present flow at Kansas City is from Fort Peck Reservoir with re-regulation by Fort Randall Dam.

Coffee Planter Denies Visiting Beria In Spain

MADRID (INS) — The Beria mystery deepened Sunday when a visiting Nicaraguan coffee planter said reports he had met the ousted Soviet secret police boss in Spain were "completely phony."

Fabio Gallo, alleged "mystery" man who purportedly contacted Lavrenti P. Beria, indignantly knocked down what for a while had been considered a hot lead to the fate of Russia's one-time No. 2 man, who was purged as a traitor last July.

Gallo said, "I never knew or talked with Beria, or anyone who even looked like Beria. I know nothing about him except what I have read in the newspapers."

The Beria mystery exploded last week when a spokesman for Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's Senate Investigating Subcommittee reported that a man believed to be Beria had escaped from the Soviet Union and was seeking sanctuary in the United States, in return for revealing the Kremlin's top secrets.

Longshoremen To Oust Ryan

NEW YORK (INS) — Top brass of the rackets-ridden International Longshoremen's Association chose a successor Sunday to lifetime president Joseph P. Ryan and prepared for a showdown session Monday at which Ryan will be ordered to quit.

The action was taken as part of a desperate bid by the ILA group recently ousted from the AFL to clean house and rally support of the rank and file.

The 30-man committee of the Atlantic Coast District Council selected William V. Bradley to succeed Ryan in a closed-door meeting and will demand that Ryan resign and take his henchmen with him.

Meanwhile, the largest police details in history will patrol the New York docks to avert violence as the newly-created AFL-International Longshoremen's Association makes a bid to raid the ranks of the old ILA.

Rev. Dick has been pastor of the Colorado Springs church for the past nine years. He will assume his duties on Jan. 1 next year.

Water To Fight Rural Fires Now Major Fire Prevention Problem

Sufficient water for rural fire protection is now the major problem in the state fire prevention program, E. C. Iverson, State Fire Marshal, announced.

He explained that rural districts are now fairly well supplied with equipment. Past, Future Is Theme Of Day:

State Spirit, Toil Praised At Dedication

By SALLY ADAMS
Star Staff Writer

Thankfulness for the past and confidence in the future were foremost in the minds of Nebraskans as the new Nebraska State Historical Society building was dedicated Sunday at the conclusion of the society's 75th anniversary celebration.

Dedicated labor and faith, capable of surviving every reverse, built Nebraska, J. E. Lawrence, historical society president, said as he presented the building to the people of the state.

"These generations of Nebraskans, in happy spirit and with willing hands, built well and wisely," he said to the more than 400 persons attending the dedicatory luncheon.

Their purpose, he said, was to build a state where men and women could live in the full dignity of freedom. The miracle of the soil which has captured the imagination through all ages was wrought here, he said.

Neighborhood Stressed
"Here men thought of justice, and justice there has been," he said. "Here there has been recognition that one of the great leavening forces in organized society is neighborhood. Here on Nebraska soil old racial barriers were dissolved in favor of common understanding."

Lawrence said that the 75th anniversary of the society is a milestone of significance. He quoted the words of the late Dr. A. E. Sheldon, society superintendent from 1917 to 1943, describing the spirit of Nebraska.

"In these years was created the soul of Nebraska," Dr. Sheldon said, "the characteristics of mind, vision and form of action. Soil and sun and wind, hardship and conflict, spirit, institutions, debate and experience shaped the type of man who still lives upon the prairies."

Tribute To Garber
Lawrence paid tribute to Daniel Garber of Red Cloud who introduced the legislative bill in 1943 which provided revenue to construct the new building.

The persons responsible for the building did not do it for themselves, Gov. Robert Crosby said as he accepted the building on behalf of the people of Nebraska. Those planners wanted the recollections of a great state preserved, he said.

"There is a deep religious thread going through our history," he said. "We are blessed because we are close to the root-land of the soil."

Crosby, expressing his great pride in being governor of the state, said "you have to live a little while before you get the feeling of the history of your state."

Nebraskans, he said, must not have a feeling of smugness which excludes newcomers. Some persons develop the capacity for love which embraces the state, he said. This love is characterized by recollections which are not so pleasant, he said as he recalled struggling through less prosperous years.

The Historical Society building was conceived in the imaginations of those who dared to think boldly, Dr. Albert Corey, president of the American Association for State and Local History, said.

The American historical scene is characterized by expansionism accompanied by optimism, he said as he brought a welcome from the association.

He expressed the hope that men never lose the sense of daring to face the unknown.

Chief Problem
One of the chief problems, he said, is the contraction of resources and efforts to find new ones and make the best of what we have.

"It is the people who have made the American scene," he said.

Mayor Clark Jeary brought a word of assurance that the people of Lincoln would be trustees of the new building.

"The building," he said, "is a symbol of our gratitude to our forebearers."

The new building will induce students to become more familiar with the history of Nebraska, C. Y. Thompson, president of the Board of Regents, said as he welcomed the society to the University of Nebraska campus.

"It will make them more loyal Cornhuskers," he said, "and give them faith and confidence in the future of Nebraska."

The structure is the realization of a half century dream of the Nebraska State Historical Society, Dr. James Olson, society superintendent said.

Provides Link
It provides an architectural and spiritual link between the university and state capital building, he said. It has been decorated in a bright, modern style to show the children of the state, that Nebraska history of the late Dr. A. E. Sheldon, society superintendent said.

Nathan Gold, immediate past treasurer of the society, presided at the dedication. Among the distinguished guests were Sen.

Accident Rate Reduction Hinges On Person's Attitude

By ARCH DONOVAN
Star Staff Writer

"Improving of an individual's attitude when he becomes a part of the traffic stream, whether as a driver or as a pedestrian, is the secret to improving our highway accident rate."

That is the conclusion reached by the state accident record bureau after compiling statistics on accidents in the state in 1952.

The report reveals that 7,958 persons were injured in traffic accidents during the year—a decline from 8,097 the previous year. There were 283 fatalities, also a decline from the 341 of 1951 and 306 of 1950. The number of vehicles involved, however, soared to 25,489.

Intersections accounted for 8,854 accidents and 63 fatalities as compared with the 16,635 accidents and 220 fatalities elsewhere. Only 1,203 accidents and 20 fatalities occurred on curves while 21,895 accidents and 219 deaths were on straight roads.

Roadway defects accounted for 481 accidents and six deaths in the 16,115 accidents occurring in urban areas (towns in excess of 1,000 population). Of the 9,374 rural accidents, 2,357 and 51 deaths were due to defects in highways. The highway defects only accounted for 10 per cent of accidents and 17 per cent of fatalities.

Motorist at Fault
"It wasn't the roads nor was it the vehicles which caused the most accidents in Nebraska last year," the report summarizes. "Drivers who by law and by nature, are supposed to be mentally mature enough to operate a motor vehicle caused 79.7 per cent of the accidents by violating or completely disregarding some traffic rule."

Improper passing was one of the chief driver violations and accounted for 7 per cent of the accidents where a violation was reported. This included "cutting-in," driving on the wrong side of the road with no passing maneuver involved and passing on hills and curves. The report showed 1,100 cases of driving on the wrong side of the road when not passing.

Speed Kills 10
Speeds over 60 miles an hour accounted for 3 accidents and one fatality in urban areas and 70 accidents and 7 deaths in rural areas.

Of the 44,680 drivers involved in accidents, 84.78 per cent were men and 13.3 per cent women.

Hugh Butler, Rep. Carl T. Curtis, John Seleck, acting chancellor of the University; Dr. William J. Peterson, superintendent of the Iowa State Historical Society, and Dr. Claude R. Cook, director of the Iowa department of history and archives.

Immediately following the dedicatory ceremony, Gov. Robert Crosby cut the ribbon and opened the doors of the State Historical Society building.

Many Children
More than 1,000 persons streamed through the building Sunday afternoon. "I remember when..." was heard frequently from many of the visitors, who perhaps had been pioneers themselves. Many children were on hand to gaze with curiosity and interest at the well-prepared exhibits.

The interior decoration and exhibits, planned and supervised by Marvin F. Kivett, director of museum, featured reds and yellows in the west, or Indian gallery, and greens, symbolic of agriculture, in the east, or Pioneer Gallery.

In addition to the museum, the building houses the state archives, library, a small auditorium and administrative offices. It was built at a cost of $600,000 raised from special tax levy.

It was a victory for the Communists, who had insisted the right to talk to anti-Red Chinese and North Korean prisoners individually. The U.N. command opposed such a procedure, contending it would give the Reds an opportunity to intimidate the balky prisoners.

Settlement of the problem left the way clear for the beginning of explanations next Thursday, five days later than originally scheduled.

Warren-Brownell Meeting Reported; Speculation Fueled

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Amid high secrecy, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell was reported to have flown into McClellan Air Force Base here Sunday and conferred with Gov. Earl Warren for three hours.

The hush-hush trip touched off fresh speculation that it had to do with a forthcoming federal appointment for the 63-year-old Republican governor, often mentioned for the supreme court, which now has a vacancy.

Warren already has said he will not be a candidate for a fourth term next year. In his recent actions he has acted like a man clearing his desk for a new assignment.

Cows Pastured On Corn, Dry Weather Sign

This scene of livestock turned out in ripened corn is being repeated widely over the state this fall as farmers decide that corn damaged by the dry weather is more valuable as feed than as a small-yield cash crop. The pasturing of corn follows the unusually large amount of silage-cutting of the crop reported through the drier sections of the state. The above picture was taken in a Cass County field. The corn in this region is generally better than in many other parts of the state. (Star Staff Photo.)

Farm Area Concerned On Prices

Politicians Watch
Big Organizations

WASHINGTON (P) — Reports from the farm country indicate growing concern over the agricultural situation and perhaps increasing support for a high floor on farm prices.

Politicians here are weighing the situation to see whether it forecasts a shift in the position of three big farm organizations on the price support question.

Falling farm prices and incomes, accumulating crop surpluses and declining foreign markets have combined to create a major problem for Congress when it convenes in January.

Many Ideas
Scores of proposals are being suggested, some by government farm officials, some by members of Congress, some by farmers and their organizations.

When Congressional committees get down to the task of writing new legislation, the question of government price supports for farm products is expected to become a basic issue.

On this question the major farm organizations are not united. All endorse the idea of the government placing floors under farm prices designed to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

Three Agreed
Three major farm groups have contended that the 90 per cent parity supports are too high, except in periods of shortages and other emergencies. They are the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, and the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives.

On the other hand, the National Farmers' Union has favored the so-called high supports. It would put them at 100 per cent of parity and keep them there year in and year out. Furthermore, it would extend the supports to many crops and livestock products not now covered.

Husband Kills Man In Bed With Wife

SEATTLE (P) — A prominent businessman of suburban Bellevue was shot and killed early Sunday while in bed with the estranged wife of the man who fired the .38-caliber revolver.

Capt. A. W. Lyskowski, chief of King County detectives, gave this account:
Price Milton, 42, also a businessman, was shot by Thomas Reeder, 54, owner of a Lake Sammamish resort, after Reeder poked his fist through a window in Price's home to gain entry, then fired at the nude Price, who was in bed with Reeder's wife, Beulah, 44.

Lyskowski said that Mrs. Reeder, in a signed statement, said she had gone to the Price home about 11 p.m. last night to draw an advance on her salary. She did bookkeeping for Price.

News Around The Globe

Work Or Quit

MARGATE, England (P)—Leftwing Laor leader Aneurin Bevan Sunday demanded that Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill either get back in harness or resign.

Bevan fired his attack at a preliminary session of the Labor Party's annual conference which is being held this week.

Oysters 'Freed'

TOKYO (Monday) (P)—Last week's typhoon dealt a near knockout blow to Japan's pearl cultivation industry, Asahi reported today, causing an estimated 5 1/2 million dollars damage.

For the next two or three years no cultivated pearl will come out of the famous Mikimoto pearl grounds, the newspaper said.

The pearl grounds are in five inlets facing the Pacific in central Japan. They received the full brunt of the typhoon. Some 26,000 rafts from which pearl oysters are hung were either sunk or washed away.

French Give Aid

HANOI, Indochina (P)—The French high command announced Sunday night it was forced to send air support to Vietnamese battalions to ward off attacks by Vietnamese soldiers in the vital sector of the Red River Delta which had been assigned exclusively for defense by the Vietnamese.

The French sent fighters and bombers on 40 sorties to aid three Vietnamese battalions attacked by the Communist-led Vietminh in the Buichu sector, 75 miles southeast of Hanoi.

Condition Of Boy, Missing 3 Days After Crash, 'Good'

COZAD, Neb. (P)—Wolfgang Haegele, 14-year-old Eustis had missing for three days following an auto accident, was reported in "very good condition" at Community Hospital here Sunday night.

An attending physician said young Haegele, who was found Friday behind a chicken house on the farm of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haegele, suffered a basal skull fracture as well as fractures of the jaw and right knee in the accident.

The physician said the boy had blanked out a couple of hours after the accident. He could not remember a thing until sometime Friday when he remembered eating from a can of corn and drinking from a stock tank south of Eustis.

Red Ship Pact

LONDON (INS)—Urgent consideration is being given by the British government to action to enable British shipyards to build vessels for Russia.

Hector Hughes, Labor M.P., was given that information in written answer to a question he had asked in the House of Commons.

Hughes had charged that Russian officials had tried to place orders with British shipyards but difficulties had been put in their way by the American Embargo Act. That act cuts off American aid to any country sending war potential materials to Communist countries.

Write 100 Times ...

LONDON (P)—Pravda, newspaper of the Soviet Communist Party, complained Sunday that Russians aren't taking Communist propaganda seriously enough.

A Pravda editorial, quoted by Moscow radio, said there is too much wishful thinking, too much simplification, and too much of a happy-go-lucky attitude toward party education.

Won't Disbar Reds

WASHINGTON (INS) — Informed sources said Sunday Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. will turn down an American Bar Association proposal that he move to disbar Communist lawyers.

At the same time, Brownell was said to be ready to prosecute a number of former government lawyers suspected of violating the so-called conflict of interest laws by taking private cases they handled while on the federal payroll.

New Fight For Reds

BERLIN (P)—Sullen East German workers have thrown a new fight into Communist ranks by a rash of slowdowns in vital Russian zone plants. Evidence piled up Sunday that the Red regime seems confused as to how to combat it.

The ruling Socialist Unity Communist Party sent its top trouble-shooter Saturday to Halle in an effort to drag the issue into the open and find a solution. The party newspaper said Hermann Matern, Politburo member and head of the Control Commission, had found a "highly disturbing" set of affairs.

Assets Confiscated

CAIRO (Monday) (INS)—Egypt's republican government announced today the confiscation of all of ex-King Farouk's assets in Egypt—estimated unofficially in the multi-millions. The decision taken by the Revolutionary Council, headed by President Mohammed Naguib, was made public by Major Saleh Salem.

U.S. Shouldn't Worry

WASHINGTON (P) — Economist Leon Keyserling warned against a "fear psychosis" which he said could bring on a recession "or even a depression."

He told a group of American Jewish leaders that although some ups and downs may be expected by way of adjustment, America's long-range economic prospects are good.

'One For Road' Becomes 'One For The Jail'

NEW YORK (INS)—A drink on the house wrote a quick finish Sunday to the hold-up career of Seaman Frank Lancer.

Lancer got $40 from bartender James Lusk at Ford's Tavern in New York, then accepted Lusk's offer of "one for the road."

While Lancer downed the whiskey, the police arrived, nabbed him and booked him for the robbery.

'Postponement' Government Is Scored By Ted Sorensen

There are dangers as well as disappointments in government by postponement, Theodore Sorensen, former Lincolnite and legislative counsel to Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, said Sunday night.

Delay, confusion and uncertainty are potentially dangerous in both the domestic and foreign fields, he said addressing the Unitarian Laymen's League.

"In the field of international relations, 1953 has pointed up the dangers of government delay and postponement," he said. "In the seemingly less delicate but equally vital field of our domestic economy, government by postponement treads an equally dangerous path in 1953."

This is a year of international unrest, Sorensen said, but the government has followed such courses as dismissing the most competent public servants, threatening and insulting allies and played politics on immigration.

Sorensen cited shuffling in the Council of Economic Advisers as an example of domestic inaction. "For the first time since 1946," he said, "Congress and the nation failed to get the mid-year economic report authorized by law. In this year of economic doubt, we fail to get the analysis of present and future economic conditions we need."

Sorensen said he was worried lest inaction, indecision and ineptitude result in a recession damaging to everyone. There has been little change in basic operating policies by the legislative branch of government.

Grain Storage Refusals Told By Humphrey

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Sunday he has received "repeated complaints" that certain terminal elevator operators are refusing grain storage to farmers.

They do this, he told the Department of Agriculture, to force them to sell their grain on the open market rather than give them the advantage of a higher price under government support.

The government allows price support loans only on commodities that are properly stored. Humphrey noted that warehousemen are permitted to expand their storage facilities at tax rates considerably less than normal.

In permitting these write-offs, he wrote Assistant Secretary of Agriculture John H. Davis, the department should insist these facilities will help farmers in the price support program.

Opera Star Passes Met For Nightclubs

NEW YORK (P)—Helen Traubel, America's most famous Wagnerian soprano, broke off her long association with the Metropolitan Opera Sunday in a dispute over night clubs, culture, and snobbery.

Miss Traubel recently made her debut as a night club singer in the Chez Paree in Chicago—a debut which Metropolitan manager Rudolf Bing criticized in an exchange of letters with the soprano.

In a letter dated Sunday, Miss Traubel replied to Bing's criticism: "To assert that art can be found in the Metropolitan Opera House but not in night club is a rank snobbery that underates both the taste of the American public and the talents of its composers."

"I love the songs of Gershwin, Handy, Kern, Rodgers, Berlin, and other great American composers. I am glad to sing them and to bring to them my training and equipment as a singer. Since I cannot sing them at the Metropolitan... I am singing them at night clubs, and I am happy to have found that... audiences are enthusiastically accepting me on my own terms."

A. Kopperud, Former Bank Officer, Dies

WATERTOWN, S. D. (P)—Andrew Kopperud, 73, former vice-president of the Omaha Land Bank, died here early Sunday after an illness of a few months.

He was with the Land Bank at Omaha from 1925 to 1942, returning to South Dakota to become president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Watertown. He retired recently.

RONALD HANDY

Chadd's Condition 'Improved,' Handy Rites Are Tuesday

Pvt. Clyde Chadd, 19, of 1220 Knox, who suffered injuries in an accident which took the life of Ronald Handy of Lincoln, was reported late Sunday night to be "improving but still in serious condition."

Chadd suffered as yet undetermined neck and back injuries in the two car collision near Belmont in front of the Glenn Wells farm at 4601 No. 7th Saturday night.

The car both Chadd and Handy were riding in bounced and rolled 166 feet after impact. Handy, 19, of 1201 Belmont, who was killed instantly, is survived by his wife, Eva; one daughter, Pamela Kay; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Todd Handy, grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Handy, and one sister, Donna Rae, all of Lincoln.

Also surviving are grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Shaw of Bartlesville, Okla. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Umbergers, the Rev. Eugene Beyer officiating. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Park.

Pallbearers are Larry Wother, Jimmy Sheldon, Junior Shaw, Dale Handy, Arthur Handy and Bobby Null.

Outstate Program Will Test Wheat Varieties, Fertilizers

By V. H. PETERSEN
Lancaster County Agent

The Lancaster County Extension Service is co-operating with the University of Nebraska agronomy department's outstate testing program. The wheat variety and fertilizer test is also sponsored by the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association.

The test plot is located on the George Bulling farm, four miles north and three-quarters mile east of Lincoln.

Eighty-five Lancaster County farmers, who have samples of their wheat in the test, will find this plot of special interest. The extension office, working through local elevators, secured the farmer samples.

The 85 farmers will have an opportunity at a spring meeting to compare their wheat with 14 other varieties, several of which are still in the experimental state. Included in the test are Pawnee, Nebred, Turkey Red, Ponca, Kiowa, Sioux, Comanche, and seven experimental varieties. The Grain Improvement Association is also including 21 check samples.

NW Homecoming Set For Oct. 16-17

The Wesleyan-Doane football game, a chuck wagon dinner, the annual dance, house decorations and a pep rally will all highlight Nebraska Wesleyan's homecoming celebration which will be held Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16 and 17.

Friday morning's all-student rally will open festivities, which will climax Saturday night at the dance, slated for the North-east High School gymnasium.

Five Lincoln business and professional people will serve as judges in the house decorating contest. The Lincoln chapter of the NWU Alumni Association will host the Bar-Bee-Cue, which will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Friday on the campus.

In addition to the observation of varieties there will be an opportunity to see the effects of fertilizers. In fact, the plot will include three tests with 29 different treatments.

One test will include the ordinary testing of phosphorous, nitrogen, and potash to determine the needs of the soil for growing wheat.

Another test will compare different types of phosphate fertilizers on an acid soil. As a part of this same test a portion of the plot has been limed so that its effect on different types of phosphate fertilizers can be compared.

Still another portion of the plot had phosphate broadcast and this will be compared with phosphate applied right with the seed.

No Influx Of Americans In Spain Seen

Agreement With U.S. Is In Effect

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Spain will see no great influx of Yankee personnel under the newly signed U.S.-Spanish aid-for-bases pact.

Official American sources here said the two nations, who have allied themselves in a 20-year agreement to develop this country as a powerful anchor in the western European defense wall, have agreed that Americans brought in to implement the accord will be kept at a minimum.

The agreement became effective Saturday as soon as it was signed by U. S. Ambassador James C. Dunn and Generalissimo Francisco Franco's foreign minister, Alberto Martin Artajo.

American operations at the naval and air bases Spain is permitting the United States to use will be under a special mission to be set up immediately under Ambassador Dunn. But the terms of the agreement call for the use of Spaniards wherever possible in the big new program for developing those bases for joint Spanish-American use and for renovating and expanding this country's outmoded military machine.

Meanwhile an official Kremlin blast at the new Spanish-American pact giving the United States bases in Spain is expected on the floor of the U.N. assembly Tuesday.

(Andrei Vishinsky, chief Soviet delegate, is preparing an overall reply to other delegates at the windup of the Assembly's opening policy debates. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the U. S. chief delegate, is ready to take the floor for a quick rebuttal.)

American aid totaling 226 million dollars will be supplied Spain under the mutual security program in the current fiscal year ending next June 30. American sources here said a telegram received here from the office of Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen urged that shipments of material to Spain be "stepped up" beyond the original plan. If the United States can supply the money, the modern arms and equipment, Spain can certainly supply the manpower. Western military experts say Spain has a good supply of tough, seasoned, well-disciplined men essential for the building program.

Among these are 350,000 well-trained soldiers divided into a million-and-a-half man army of 60 divisions.

C. D. Williams Re-Installed As LDS Head

Clarence D. Williams, Lincoln, was officially re-installed president of the Lincoln Church of Re-organized Latter Day Saints Sunday at the close of the Southern Nebraska District meeting of the Church of Re-organized Latter Day Saints.

Apostle D. Blair Jensen, Independence, Mo., apostle-in-charge of the conference, emphasized at the ceremonies the importance of the mission branch of the organization in the district set-up in order that the church's work might become more widespread and efficient.

Earlier, Elder Myron F. LaPointe of Lincoln told the congregation many times people will accept the major points of law but will overlook the minor points of that same law.

He illustrated his point by citing the case of the young ruler, who coming to Jesus and asking for eternal life, was told to give all his possessions to the poor and follow God. This the young man could not do, Elder LaPointe said, because there remained something in his heart which served as a barrier between him and Jesus. And although this young man, as many others do, observed some of the major commandments, he overlooked the minor one, Elder LaPointe concluded.

Other officers installed in the afternoon include:

Harry Niehaus, counselor.
Francis Schunk, director of religious activities.
Harold Talcott, young people's director.
Edith Niehaus, director of women.
Iola Wright, treasurer.
Virginia Collins, district clerk.
Dorothy Williams, music director.
Vinton Wiest, church historian.
Verla Mills, Lexington, director of isolated saints.
Grover Wall, auditor.

Wounded In City Hall Gun Fray

A doctor (left) checks Frederick J. Byrnes, address unknown, after police nabbed him Saturday night. Byrnes was critically injured in a running gun battle in and around Minneapolis city hall. Police Inspector E. T. Hart said Byrnes opened fire on officials after first touring police and fire headquarters, posing as an army investigator checking civil defense facilities. The shooting came, Hart said, when officers questioned Byrnes' identification. He was wounded as he fled down a city hall corridor and was nabbed later when a commandeer getaway car developed a flat tire. (AP Wirephoto Sunday Night.)

Church Hears 3 Speakers At Festival

Frieden's Lutheran Church observed its annual mission festival Sunday with addresses led by Dr. Paul Hentsch, three months ago pastor of a German Church; Edgar Menzies, a native of British Guiana; Rev. J. Bahnsen of Hastings and a missionary on furlough from Japan.

Dr. Hentsch told the morning congregation that the German Lutheran Church supports 446 missions, serving 10,227 persons in China, Africa, India and the South Seas. He pointed out that other missionary work on the part of German churches included missionary work in Eastern Germany, where many of the churches were destroyed and missionary work in the large refugee camps that dot West Germany. Dr. Hentsch is now an assistant at Tabitha Home.

Earlier Edgar Menzies urged the congregation to think of full time missionary activities because "America today is the only nation that is truly Christian" and therefore the only proper one to lead a Christian crusade.

He pointed out that "because America is the world's greatest power, it commands a great deal of respect. And if America is to contribute anything through this power for other nations, it should be the exporting of the gospel."

In the evening, Mrs. Helene Harder, missionary on furlough from Fukuoka, Japan, said the growth of the Christian Church

Florists End 25th Meeting With Election

More than 250 members of the Nebraska Florists Society brought an end to their 25th annual convention by naming a new board of directors and adopting a new flower slogan for the coming year.

Marking a climax to the three day convention, M. J. Hruban's slogan: "Flowers speak for themselves... send them often," was voted the top one in the contest. Hruban, from Central City, received a $35 prize for his effort. Second place and $20 went to Del Tyrell of Lincoln for the slogan: "Flowers are the gracious way," and third place and $15 went to John Simanton of Pawnee City with the slogan: "Being remembered is joyful—forgotten is sorrowful."

New directors of the florists are: Paul Rowden, Norfolk; Harry Kramer, Lincoln; and Gilbert Krueger of Lyons. Retiring directors are: Don Wilcox, Omaha; Joe Green, Fremont; and Leo Anderson of North Platte.

Highlight of the convention was a 20-show exhibit of suppliers featuring Christmas variety items.

J. R. Rosebrough, Salesman, 71, Dies

James R. Rosebrough, 71, 316 No. 34th, a retired furniture company salesman, died early Sunday at a local hospital.

A resident of Lincoln the past three and a half years, Mr. Rosebrough came here from Worthington, Minn. He was born at Mason City, Ill.

Mr. Rosebrough was a member of Hastings Lodge 50, A.F.&A.M. Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Wadlow's, the Rev. Harold C. Sandall officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery, Beatrice.

Surviving is his wife, Flora E.

From Lincoln Pulpits: Showing Men Higher Goal One Purpose Of The Church

Lifting man's vision and adjusting his will to reach toward the hitherto unattainable is one purpose of the church, the Rev. Lloyd Shubert said in his farewell sermon at Vine Congregational Church Sunday morning.

Rev. Shubert, who has accepted a teaching position at Wayne State Teachers College, said the church's function of spot-lighting a better future for mankind is evident in the message of the Hebrew prophets and the leaders of the Christian movement.

"We were permitted to view the church today, as a pageant, with spotlights upon our scenes," he said, "we might better appreciate the contribution it is capable of making in the life of tomorrow."

"As the light falls on the first scene where half-a-dozen people sit and talk quietly we might discover that these are Christians at work on a better solution to a social problem. This is the church, too."

Then let our light move to a family dinner table where harmony is apparent, and we see that this is the church.

"Our light moves on to a hospital clinic where even the poorest can have the best of service, and this is the church."

"With the light at full-beam we pick up a playground where laughter is in order, and we know that this is the church."

Rev. Shubert said the church is spot-lighting a course of better living wherever men and women work and play together in the spirit of good will.

"If we would spot-light tomorrow as a way of a richer life for all," he said, "we shall need to arrange the scenes on the stage of our church of today."

Approximately 175 persons gathered at Vine Congregational Sunday afternoon to honor the Shuberts at a farewell reception.

Rev. Shubert

Church leaders in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McNeill, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Snipes, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Saunders, Earl Heironymus, Ruth Scheerer, and Joan Joyner.

Salem Congregational

Man lives in a sinful world, the Rev. Conrad Sauer of Ft. Morgan, Colo., told the Salem Congregational Church congregation Sunday morning. But through the power of Christ Jesus, it is possible to heal all the sins of the world, he said.

Rev. Sauer, a former pastor of Emmanuel Reformed Church in Lincoln, illustrated the power of Jesus healing through faith on the man of palsy.

"It's a Christian task to let the light of Christ shine through his life," Rev. Sauer pointed out to the more than 200 persons attending, "and this task will require a lot of Christian sacrifice."

2 Japanese Parties Join Bi-Partisan Rearmament Plan

TOKYO (Monday) (AP)—Leaders of Japan's two most powerful political parties closed ranks yesterday and forged a bi-partisan rearmament plan to speed national defense.

Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, head of the dominant Liberal Party, called on Mamoru Shigemitsu, leader of the second ranking Progressive party and ironed out long-standing past differences on the touchy arms issue, according to a statement issued to the press.

Yoshida leads 201 Liberals in the 466-man House of Representatives and Shigemitsu controls 76 Progressives—more than enough for a solid majority. The agreement was doubly significant for it may eventually lead to a coalition of the two parties and stabilize stormy Japanese politics.

UNITED AIR LINES

Making It Unanimous

One development that has escaped attention generally is that more and more communities, large and small, are experiencing difficulty with their supplies of water.

The temporary remedy is restricted use by rationing programs.

Unfortunately that provides no final answer. We have no idea of the number of American cities which rely exclusively on wells for their water supply—or the number of communities in this country which utilize the waters of streams for domestic purposes after adequate treatment to insure health.

Now and then there breaks into the news columns in the headlines one of the most important developments in America. Water tables over a wide section of this country have been dropping. Their lowering is not confined to any single area. It has put in an appearance east, west, south and in some central sections. The important thing is to find some means of rebuilding the underground water supply. We all know that a great deal of water goes to waste while flowing to the sea.

Is There Anything New?

Gov. Bob Crosby was on the soundest of sound ground in rejecting the proposal for a special session of the Nebraska Legislature to consider tax matters.

It is somewhat on the side of over-optimism to expect a legislature to outline an acceptable tax program after a few days of discussion. Back in Washington, the first session of the 83rd Congress after six months of milling around found itself at loggerheads when it came to drafting new legislation. Net result was nothing done. What Nebraska must settle for its own satisfaction is whether it can live within the limits of its restricted tax base or must reach out into new fields for additional tax revenue.

Whatever is to be done should be shaped more or less with the idea of some permanency. It could be tough on the blood pressure of the people of Nebraska if every legislative session finds the Legislature groping around in the dark for more tax revenue.

Between now and the next session, the opportunity exists for people in all stations of life and in all sections of Nebraska to devote thought to taxation.

When Plans Go Sour

"Almost every plan, purpose, and calculation which the Eisenhower administration brought to Washington eight months ago has been shaken to its foundation by the double fact that Soviet Russia not only has achieved a hydrogen bomb but also is proceeding on a series of tests, involving a variety of other types of atomic weapons," capable Joseph C. Harsch writes in the Christian Science Monitor.

A good newspaperman, Mr. Harsch, usually well out in front of the pack.

It may not have been a part of his thinking, but what he seems to be saying is that "government by crisis" still is very much with us, much as we may have hoped that a change in Washington would end it.

Then one by one, Mr. Harsch picks out the items suggesting that a massive re-examination of national policy is going on beneath the surface in Washington. He refers to a speech by the President in Boston, to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's address to the American Bankers Association, to an address by Secretary of the Air Force Talbott, to presidential consideration of a series of radio speeches to inform the American people about atomic weapons and their present meaning in the world's military balance of power, and finally, to what he says is an open secret in Washington that most serious consideration is being given to the possibility of imposing a general manufacturers' excise tax (sales tax) on the American economy next year to offset the loss of federal revenue from the promised elimination of the excess profits tax and the 10 per cent slash in personal income taxes.

If that is the way it is, we think the American people are fully capable of taking it. That is to say that if any doubt exists as to their desires, their first desire is to have the facts, and all of the facts that can be made available to them, spread out squarely in front of their eyes. They want to be informed. They prefer to know what's cooking. They can be depended upon to act sensibly whenever they have enough information in their hands with which to pass intelligent judgment.

If every plan and purpose and calculation held by the administration at this time has been upset by the knowledge that Russia has made more rapid progress with the most destructive weapons science can produce, then the clear, hard course of action that commands itself is to give to the public the full facts. The Russians have at times appeared so incompetent and stupid, particularly, Harsch says, in the field of agricultural policy. But there is nothing wrong with their science or technical engineering skill. Espionage could give the Russians basic formulas for atomic weapons, Harsch observes, but espionage could not provide them with the technical engineering skill to convert laboratory bombs into stockpiles of a variety of atomic weapons. It is there, apparently, where miscalculations begin. If the facts are as tough as has been suggested, then we discounted Russian engineering competency.

Of Men And Things

There were so few hours in a week end to get over a lot of ground. It was the 75th anniversary of the Nebraska State Historical Society, and the dedicatory program for a new building. From a distance Dr. Albert B. Corey, distinguished New York state historian and president of the American Association for State and Local History, came to outline a program of action to place history in the proper setting locally.

Then in the evening at the annual dinner meeting of the society, a widely known historian, a Texan, Dr. Walter Prescott Webb, spoke to the most largely attended dinner meeting the society has held. On Sunday the dedication program rounded out the ceremonies. Those Nebraska pioneers were far-sighted. They looked ahead to future needs. And it was one of the most far-sighted, scholarly, valuable leaders of those early years, a former governor of this state, Robert W. Furnas, who set in motion the action that led to the formation of the Nebraska State Historical Society. Its growth in those earlier years was painfully slow but sound. Only the persistence, the inspired service of individuals enabled the society to build its archives and its museum.

Those Pioneers Looked Far Ahead

The new building formally opened to the public Sunday will prove of increasing usefulness to the people of the state. For the first time it is possible to make full use of a huge amount of historical material, thousands of items, in the enlarged quarters provided by the building. The new facilities supply more than double the floor space that was available in the old quarters at the capitol building. And completely overhauled, rearranged, and displayed more effectively are the exhibits which will interest Nebraskans for years to come, and which will provide them with a better knowledge of their own state now nearing the centennial of territorial organization.

Dr. Corey brought out so forcefully that history at its best, intangible though some of its elements may be, is not a matter of dates, places, or even incidents alone. History is only history in the true sense when the past is related and integrated with the present and the future. Then it becomes a living factor, expressed in human terms of progress, and of value to progress itself. The human side of history, its relation to people and to the accomplishments of people is the real goal of collecting the story of the past, weaving it into developments now taking place, and furnishing inspiration for the years ahead. In that sense, the new quarters of the Nebraska State Historical Society and the eager efforts of a capable staff will bring Nebraskans a great deal of satisfaction.

Often it may appear that the settlements to the west of the Missouri lack in dramatic qualities. If that is the case, then it is only because they have been accepted without full appreciation of their relation to the area itself, and in a larger sense, to the entire nation. This story of Nebraska settlers is an intensely human one, from out of which peeks those qualities of character that have been stamped upon Nebraska citizenry. We are quite sure that as the expanding usefulness of the society reaches more and more Nebraskans, the value of the society's new home will become the more appreciated.

McCarthy, Gallo Linked In Beria Escape Story

WASHINGTON—Here is the inside story of how Marshal Lavrenti Beria, ex-No. 2 man of Russia, popped up on the list of Joe McCarthy's potential witnesses.

Though the story hasn't panned out the way McCarthy hoped, real fact is that Joe had been saving this as the big piece of resistance of his whole spy-hunting, witch-hunting career. Revelation that the former secret police chief of Russia had surrendered to McCarthy was to be a sensational climax which would rebuild the public confidence that fell off after Joe hired, then fired, J. B. Matthews, the Protestant Red-hunter.

The man who sold McCarthy on the Marshal Beria escape is a colorful and delightful soldier of fortune named Flavio Gallo, a Nicaraguan who has been trying to dump the present regime in Nicaragua, and who also has some political axes to grind against the Arbenz Guzman regime in Guatemala.

Gallo operates in Mexico and on the West Coast and was the source of the report that a State Department official had been shaken down for $150,000 during the Truman administration. Gallo has had close contacts with Gene Fuson, a California newspaperman who first broke the story of the $150,000 bribe and also wrote the first report that Marshal Beria had escaped.

Last summer Gallo privately peddled the rumor that Beria had escaped from the Kremlin early in July and was hiding in Spain. According to Soviet announcements, Beria was arrested on June 26. According to Gallo's story, he escaped a short time later and went to Spain.

Gallo conveyed this information to McCarthy in midsummer so the Wisconsin senator had known about the report for about two months. During that time, so far as can be ascertained, he did not pass the word on to the State Department until last week. This in itself is highly unusual, for reports of extraordinary activity behind or inside the Iron Curtain can be of great value to central intelligence and the State Department, and are supposed to be passed on immediately.

This, however, apparently was not done. For State Department officials said the first thing they knew about the matter was when they read the Beria reports in the newspapers. Vice President Nixon substantiated advance knowledge of the matter when he said in New York last week that he had known of the alleged Beria escape for about a month.

Yet not a word was dropped to the State Department, which customarily takes every possible step to check reports that affect Soviet foreign policy.

Instead, Soldier of Fortune Flavio Gallo shipped his Cadillac to Italy in August, then went himself to Italy and Spain for a rendezvous with the alleged Marshal Beria.

In hiding with Beria, according to the McCarthy-Gallo reports, are two other Russians, one a top atomic scientist and the other an expert on North and South America and China.

The decidedly skeptical State Department and Central Intelligence Agency have sent two men, who have seen Marshal Beria and would know him if they saw him again, to Spain in order to interview the man who McCarthy's agent says is the ex-No. 2 ruler of Russia. They can't conceive that he is Beria, but they want to leave no stone unturned to get the true facts.

Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee, who's suspicious of the way the Commerce Department has pushed around American newspapers and the Cuban government regarding newsprint from Cuban sugar cane, is looking into the role of $1-a-year men inside the Commerce Department.

Last May the Cuban government took the good-neighbor policy seriously and wrote a letter to the State Department asking for the loan of Jesse Friedman, the Commerce Department's expert on making newsprint out of bagasse—sugarcane waste. After two months' delay, the Commerce Department wrote back that Friedman couldn't be spared—though the Cubans offered to pay for his time and expenses, and though actually he was doing so little inside the Commerce Department that he's about to resign.

The Cuban government wrote back on Aug. 3 wanting to know when Mr. Friedman could be spared—since he's the only government expert available on this subject. As this is written, another two months have passed and Cuba still hasn't received a reply.

Meanwhile it develops that a key official inside the Commerce Department, Leonard Pasek, who advises on newsprint matters, is loaned to the government by the Kimberly-Clark Co. of Wisconsin, manufacturers of paper from wood pulp. Pasek recently wrote a report on newsprint from saw grass which made the flat statement: "It is unlikely that any fibres produced by chemical processes alone will displace ground wood pulp as the principal fibre content of newsprint paper."

This statement is in flat contradiction to another Commerce Department report sent to the House Judiciary Committee which states that newsprint from bagasse—a chemical process—is practical and feasible.

Mr. Pasek's company manufactures paper from wood pulp. And Sen. Kefauver wants to know what any Commerce Department official on loan from a paper company may have played in blocking Cuba's request for advice in developing newsprint from a competing process.

Old And New Warfare Complicate Planning

WASHINGTON—At the end of World War II Gen. George C. Marshall, as chief of staff of the Army, told everyone who would listen that there was only one way for America to maintain an adequate defense in a perilous world. That was to institute a system of universal military training, giving the Armed Services on a continuing basis the skilled manpower they need.

But in that phase of the post-war letdown, we were bent on getting back to normalcy. With help from Communist-inspired propaganda, the big brass were derided for their selfish desire to keep our boys in uniform. So nothing was done.

The Korean War used up most of the military reserve of trained manpower. Under the spur of the draft for Korea, men signed up for three- and four-year enlistments. They are not re-enlisting. Higher pay in industry, a settled life with wife and children, greater freedom—these and other factors are working to drain off the men who know how to operate the complicated weapons of modern war.

That is one reason the task of the new Joint Chiefs of Staff in coming up with a "new look" for America's defense is far more difficult than the chiefs themselves had contemplated. It is not just a ceiling on the amount of money to be spent. There is also a ceiling perhaps even more rigid on the number of men available to do the far-flung job.

The new JCS chairman, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, is acutely aware of this second ceiling. He has some ideas on what might be done to maintain a core of seasoned, trained veterans. One is to increase the re-enlistment bonus from the current $300—$600 to $1500—$2000.

This would help to make up for differences between civilian and military living—the long periods of service overseas which mean enforced separation of families. The trend is, of course, in the opposite direction. Thus in response to pressure from retailers Congress has acted to cut down the privileges of buying at cost in military PX's.

So the new military team is faced in by limits on men as well as money at the very time that a kind of great divide has been reached calling for decisions of a make-or-buy nature. To find a parallel, it is necessary to go a long way back in history to the time when conventional weapons such as the crossbow were challenged by the shattering invention of gunpowder. In the indeterminate period between the old and the new in that earlier time, swift adaptation to the new force meant survival.

So it may be today as the choice between the conventional arms of the immediate past and the new atomic arsenal presses hard on military men charged with the grave responsibility of prescribing for America's security. It is the cost of maintaining and developing both the old and the new that makes the bill for defense expenditures so big.

Yet the new joint chiefs are understandably reluctant to leave the old behind and move into the new atomic age. What, they say, if by some remote chance the Russians should agree to the American plan for the outlawing of atomic weapons? And at one stroke of the pen the atomic arsenal should be eliminated? Then having abandoned conventional weapons, the United States would be in a desperate way.

No one really expects this to happen. But these are the shadows of doubt and fear haunting the four chiefs, all of them schooled from their first year at West Point or Annapolis, in traditional warfare.

More recently than the great divide separating the crossbow from the musket, military men learned what it meant to cling to the methods of the past. In 1939 France had prepared with the Maginot Line for a war of fixed position. But Heinz Guderian and some other brilliant planners on the German general staff came up with the concept of the panzer division and its swift, terrible mobility. The blitzkrieg swept everything before it.

That suggests, of course, still another phase of the "new look"—continental defense. Pressure has built up for a huge North American defense system, the billions for which would almost inevitably be taken from other parts of the defense budget. As of the present, the joint chiefs are in favor of a vastly stepped-up program but of a continuing build-up of the radar network being thrown across the Northeast and of the air interception to repel invading bombers.

The men who must step up to the cannon's mouth of these decisions are entitled to a generous ration of understanding and compassion. It is a very lonely responsibility we have put upon them.

BILL DOBLER At City Hall

Traffic Relief Needed For O Street

"Why not O Street?" asked a gentleman during the week, in reference to money being spent for the city's street system.

The question was particularly to the point in view of an incident which took place at the last meeting of the City Council. The incident involved a seemingly unimportant curb cut for a new filling station on East O.

While the property under consideration was zoned for local business, which includes filling stations, the Police Department traffic division recommended against any curb cuts in the area. Attorney Lloyd Marti, generally a prolific speaker and quick with an answer to any problem which may defeat his purpose, was caught nearly speechless with that turn of events.

Marti finally put across the point that it is inconceivable that the City Council would permit the construction of a business but allow no ingress or egress from that business. Without curb cuts, said Marti, cars would have to climb up over the curb to enter the station.

"Either that," humorously replied Mayor Clark Jeary, "or go on to the next filling station." The near perfect paradox presented with the case did have some humor in it but it is far from a completely laughable situation. Construction of a filling station has already been started at the northwest corner of 44th and O and the Council has not yet approved the curb cuts.

Under a strict application of the law, construction requiring curb cuts should not be started until these cuts have been approved by the Council. The general practice has been, however, to begin construction first and then follow up with the necessary building permit and curb cuts if needed.

Such a practice was followed in this case on the strength of the zoning of the land. And not only does the East O traffic problem affect this one case, but it will be a major determining factor in the development of other business all along O from 33rd to Cotner.

The curb cuts in this case were not recommended by the traffic division because of the traffic problem they would create in view of the narrowness of the street. O at the point in question is 30 feet wide and the traffic division maintains it will not recommend any more curb cuts for any business on that section of the street.

City Councilman Pat Ash stated at the meeting where the case in question was discussed that "this points up one thing—something must be done with East O. We can't stop business developments because of narrow streets."

Why hasn't O been widened? According to City Engineer D. L. Erickson, O is just one of a group of streets that need widening.

The federal government, said Erickson, has recommended East O be widened into a 64-foot street with four moving lanes of traffic and two parallel parking lanes. This presents a problem, said Erickson, since the city only has a 66 foot right-of-way which would not leave enough room for sidewalks and utility easements.

But the main problem, said the city engineer, is the fact that there is no money for the project, despite the fact that O is eligible for 50 per cent federal participation.

That statement again brings up the matter of priorities on street improvements. A big chunk of the city's street money for the coming year, approximately $225,000, will be used under current plans to match federal funds for the construction of the first part of the proposed new southeast diagonal from 21st and K to 27th and D. That fact is what brought on the question, "Why not O Street?" Why should money be spent on a new arterial, it was asked, when improvements are so badly needed on existing streets?

Erickson noted on this point that when completed, the southeast diagonal will relieve East O of a large part of the traffic it presently carries. Thus, he reasons, the need for widening O will be at least materially diminished.

There is some merit in that argument but it still leaves many things for the City Council to decide. What is to become of all the undeveloped business properties along East O until the diagonal is completed and the O Street traffic problem so dissolved that business development in the area can be unlimited except for zoning?

If the diagonal is to be completed as rapidly as possible, it would require a majority of city street funds for the next three to five years at least. With present diagonal plans, there will be only some $24,000 available for street resurfacing and other improvements in the summer of 1954, according to Erickson's figures.

Is that all the money the Council wants to spend on streets next summer? Does the Council believe $24,000 will do the required job and will like amounts be sufficient for the next few years?

The diagonal is being pushed along. Arrangements have already been made with the Board of Education for the securing of a right-of-way in the area around the school administration building.

It might be well for the Council first to answer the many questions posed by the diagonal before it blindly steps in and spends thousands of dollars on something that may be impossible to complete in the reasonably near future.

Stable Legal Order Creates Liberty

(Editor's Note: Following is a condensed text of an address by Robert H. Jackson, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, to the American Bar Association in Boston.)

There is no such thing as an achieved liberty; like electricity, there can be no substantial storage and it must be generated as it is enjoyed, or the lights go out.

If knowable and impersonal standards for ascertaining the scope of our liberties are lacking, constitutional law is almost as liquid as legislation, and we have little more of a written Constitution than does Great Britain. Can safeguards be made steady and strong enough to withstand what Judge Learned Hand calls "the intemperance of faction and the first approaches of despotism"? To answer, we must consider the momentum and potency of two distinguishable but closely related movements that hold some threat to our traditions.

One is called authoritarianism, a new name for the old practice by which official authority, unconfined by law, rides roughshod over individual rights.

A more subtle form of aggression against individual freedom comes, not from the usurping officialholder, but from the state itself, under the philosophy that all else must give way to the interests of the state. This movement is likely to progress strictly within the terms of legislation and the forms of law. Government gradually takes over direction of the total life of the citizen—economic, social, artistic and religious.

It seems to me that our traditional freedoms are less in danger of any sudden overthrow than of being gradually battered or traded for something else on which the people place a higher current value. In this anxiety-ridden time, many are ready to exchange some of their liberties for a real or fancied interest in security against external foes, internal betrayers or criminals. Others are eager to bargain away local controls for a federal subsidy. Many will give up individual rights for the promise of collective advantages.

The real question posed by the Fascist and Communist movements, which together have captivated a large part of the world's population, is whether, today, liberty is regarded by the masses of men as their most precious possession. If indifference to traditional values should spread to us, it would be the greatest threat to our own liberties.

Liberty is not self-supporting, but is the child of a just and stable legal order. An immunity which too far undermines government would be self-destructive, while today's infringement of liberty may purpose its long-range preservation. One of the paradoxes of our history is that the administration of Mr. Lincoln, most prolific in invasion of individual rights, is most commemorated for its overall service to human liberty.

What is the net gain if the liberty of one is sustained to the injury of another? Can we avoid the logic that one man's right must end where another's right begins, and that any over-extension of the right of one group or individual will merely subtract from that of another?

To the extent that public opinion of the hour is admitted to the process of constitutional interpretation, the basis for judicial review of legislative action disappears. If interpretation is not to be a mere following of election returns but a legal process, the utmost deference that courts can consciously pay to political trends is a strong, but rebuttable, presumption in favor of the constitutionality of action by the political branches.

Excluded as far as humanly possible the pressures of group opinion, but let us not deceive ourselves; long-sustained public opinion does influence the process of constitutional interpretation. Each new member of the ever-changing personnel of our courts brings to his task the assumptions and a custom of thought of a later period. The practical play of the forces of politics is such that judicial power has often delayed but never permanently defeated the persistent will of a substantial majority. Judicial review in practice therefore has proved less an obstacle to majority rule than the followers of Thomas Jefferson feared and less a guaranty of the status quo than the followers of Alexander Hamilton hoped.

But for all this, the responsibilities of the judges and lawyers for the preservation of our scheme of liberty under law is heavy, and failure will not be excused by the difficulties, weaknesses or uncertainties that I have pointed out in our process. We cannot escape the dangerously vague by resort to the dangerously rigid. But we must recognize the pliability of the process for what it is and strive to keep our liberty under law by keeping ourselves under law.

Only the people themselves who make and unmake our political regimes can permanently guard their liberty.

As Chief Justice Marshall said: "The people made the Constitution, and the people can unmake it. It is the creature of their will, and lives only by their will."

We whose lives are dedicated to freedom under law add a fervent "Long live the Constitution."

Pre-Season Party For Revelers

The members of the Revelers Club discovered there was enough money in the till (left over from last season) to have a pre-season party which promptly was arranged.—The Revelers were all on hand for the affair, which was held Sunday evening at East Hills, and at which the new officers for the coming season were named.

PTA Members Plan District Conferences

Plans are being completed by the executive board of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers for the annual fall district meetings of the organization to be held during October and the early part of November throughout the state. Dr. Galen Saylor of Lincoln, president of the Nebraska PTA Congress, and Dr. Calvin H.

Reed of the University of Nebraska, will attend the thirteen district meetings accompanied by various state officers and board members.

Lincoln PTA Boards Named

Completing preparations for the BELMONT PTA fall activities were the members of the executive board who met recently to plan for the unit's first monthly meeting to be held Oct. 20.

At the board meeting, Mrs. H. C. Glover, president announced the following chairmen: council representative, Mrs. Richard Eyer; membership, Mrs. D. D. Cox; program, Mrs. F. M. Radke; publicity, Mrs. Peter Stok; magazine, Mrs. William Muehlhausen; recreation, Chet Dill; health, Mrs. John Colburn; adult homemaking, Mrs. Laban De Ryke; safety, Mrs. Wesley Jones; and hospitality, Mrs. Wesley Jones.

The September meeting of WILLARD PTA was held Friday evening when an exhibit of the pupils summer gardens was featured. Mrs. Franklin Sheldon conducted the meeting and films, "News Magazine of the Screen," were shown followed by refreshments served by the executive board.

Committee chairmen for the year will include: membership, Mrs. George Cosier, Mrs. Clarence Reinhardt and Mrs. Walter Yonkey, adult education, Mrs. Gene Templeton; budget and finance, Mrs. Martin Meyer; hospitality, Mrs. Stephen Angle; magazine, Mrs. Marcus Van Winkle; and publicity, Miss Rose Mikulas.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Schafer, co-presidents of EVERETT PTA, have announced the unit's committee chairmen for the year.

The chairmen include: auditor, Mrs. H. Hauschild; garden, Mrs. Harry Becker; publicity, Mrs. Paul Thompson; health, Mrs. Stephen Taylor; program, Mrs. Lester Bodfield, Mrs. Fay Smith and Harold Lentz; membership, Mrs. Tennis Rapp, Mrs. Henry Sommer and Mrs. Alex Shoemaker; magazine, Mrs. A. E. Baragar; and hospitality, Mrs. George Kaufman and Mrs. Sylvia Shilhan.

Has Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Eunice Hester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin James Hester, and John Richard Scheffek, son of Mrs. John J. Scheffek of Alliance, and the late Mr. Scheffek, took place Saturday evening, Sept. 26, at St. Matthews Church, Episcopal. Gold, bronze and russet-toned chrysanthemums appointed the altar and chancel, which were lighted by tall white candles, for the 8 o'clock ceremony, solemnized by the Rev. James Stilwell.

As the 150 guests assembled, Mrs. Lloyd True presented a prelude of organ music and accompanied Robert Cumming, vocalist. Mrs. True also played the wedding music.

Mrs. Howard Hunter was her sister's matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Connie Hester, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Beverly Johnson. The honor attendant, in pastel orchid, and the bridesmaids, in the salmon tone, wore alike frocks fashioned with basques of velveteen and full net skirts. Velveteen caps completed their ensembles, and they carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Imported Rosepoint lace trimmed the bride's period gown of white satin. A wide ruffle of the lace edged the illusion yoke in the off-shoulder mode, and long sleeves accented the shirred bodice. The skirt was caught into fullness and ended in a train, and her lace-edged veil of illusion was held by a cap of lace. She carried a white prayer book ornamented with a single orchid.

Serving his brother as best man was George Scheffek of Alliance, and the ushers were Howard Hunter, Lincoln, and Gene Holthus of Alliance.

A reception was held in the parish house immediately following the ceremony, after which the couple left for a honeymoon trip to the Ozarks. For traveling, the bride wore a green knitted frock with brown accessories.

MRS. JOHN SCHEFFEK
Mr. and Mrs. Scheffek, who is a member of Phi Mu business girls sorority, will reside at Alliance.

Town Talk

TOWN TALK has it that this is an open season on dull moments—More names have been added to the list of Lincoln's popular brides-to-be—and the more names added, the more parties to talk about — We're guessing that the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Still from Pacific Grove, Calif., next Saturday will be the incentive for a variety of guest courtesies— We're expecting a general exodus to Manhattan, Kan., next weekend, too—and we wouldn't be at all surprised to learn that certain of the citizenry have their seats reserved for the game at Pittsburgh—After that the mad, merry pace begins at home.

BUT THAT all is in the future— We'll come back to the immediate present and tell you that Miss Jane Traphagen's fiancé, Homer Allen Yates Jr. of Norwalk, Conn., arrived in town during the week-end. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Allen Yates, also of Norwalk, will be coming west this mid-week.

AND ON Sunday Miss Traphagen and Mr. Yates shared honors at two parties—the first was a brunch for which Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nagle were host and hostess at their home in Crete—

The second Sunday courtesies was the dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ferguson were host and hostess when they entertained at dinner at their home. Twelve guests were invited for the dinner and an informal evening.

NEXT TUESDAY, so we hear, Miss Traphagen will be an honoree when Mrs. Robert Kasmarek of Janesville, Wis. (Halcyon Coble) and Mrs. Richard Koch of St. Louis, are brunch hostesses at Hotel Cornhusker. Places will be arranged for 14.

BUT TO get back to Mrs. Ferguson for a moment— She received word on Saturday that her brother, David Gish of Fort Worth, Tex., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gish—and a freshman at SMU this year, had pledged Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

JUST heard that Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Faulkner will be taking off next Saturday for New York City and Washington, D.C.—and that at the same time the Faulkners leave for the East Mr. Faulkner's sister, Miss Virginia Faulkner, who has been spending the past two weeks in Lincoln, will be returning to her home in Pacific Grove, Calif.

Law Wives Entertain

In courtesy to their new members, the University of Nebraska Law Wives entertained Sunday afternoon at a tea held at Ellen Smith Hall. Hostesses for the affair were the officers: Mrs. Richard Satterfield, president; Mrs. Kenneth Legg, vice president; Mrs. Fred Swihart, secretary; and Mrs. Frank Kneiff, publicity chairman.

We Hear That--

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Foster III, of Dallas, Tex., are the parents of a daughter, Susan Jean, born on Thursday, Sept. 24. Mrs. Foster will be remembered as the former Virginia Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Willis of Lincoln, and a member of Kappa Delta at the University of Nebraska. The baby has a sister, Kathy, and a brother, George, IV, and her paternal grandmother is Mrs. George B. Foster, II, of Boston, Mass.

Birthday Honoree

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lee were a dinner host and hostess at Hotel Cornhusker on Sunday evening when they entertained in celebration of the 18th birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Janet Lee. Following dinner, for which places were arranged for 22, the evening was spent informally.

Confidence

Electricity costs less today than in 1939! This surprising fact is in direct contrast to the general, post-war trend of almost every other living-cost product and led a recent national survey on living costs to point out that, dollar for dollar, "... electricity is the best buy in the whole field of living-cost products!"

To merit the confidence of the citizens of the more than 350 cities, villages, towns and rural communities we serve electrically, we are constantly developing and expanding power supply, transmission and distribution facilities and other essential service facilities to provide these customers of ours with adequate, dependable, low-cost electric service.

Wayne Church Improvement Dedicated

400 Attend Ceremonies

WAYNE, Neb. — (Lincoln Star Special) — The congregation of the First Methodist Church here Sunday dedicated an extensive $50,000 re-modeling and re-decorating project on the church building.

The Rev. A. B. Gray, pastor of the church, said more than 400 persons attended the morning dedicatory service at which Bishop H. Bascom Watts of Lincoln presided.

Bishop Watts used as his sermon topic "Candles in the Storm." He reviewed in his sermon the issues confronting church members today. During an open house reception in the afternoon the church improvements were viewed by more than 300 persons.

The improvements have been valued at about $50,000, and include a large amount of donated labor and materials by friends and members of the church. The work included kitchen improvement and basement re-modeling. Additions were also made in the Sunday School department.

In addition to Rev. Gray and Bishop Watts, those taking part in the dedication service were J. Laverne Jay, district superintendent, and teachers in the Sunday School. The three church choirs, adult, children and youth choirs, sang at the ceremony.

The Wayne First Methodist Church is 74 years old. The members of the congregation observed the 72nd anniversary of the founding in a special service two years ago.

Auburn Rite Held For Serviceman

TALMAGE, Neb. — Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon for A. C. Percy Steuart who died in service in Korea.

The serviceman is the son of Mrs. W. C. Goolsby of Talmage. He died as the result of illness in Korea. His body arrived in San Francisco Sept. 11.

The funeral services were held at the Methodist Church in Auburn.

Annual Doniphan Fall Festival Set Oct. 3

DONIPHAN, Neb. — The Doniphan Cedar View Cemetery Association will sponsor the annual fall festival here Saturday, Oct. 3.

The event has been held here for 18 years. It will open with a dinner in the Town Hall at 11:30 a.m., and a parade will follow at 2:30 p.m. A ball game is scheduled between the Doniphan Midgits and the Alda Midgits. Proceeds of the event will go to the upkeep of the cemetery.

Crude Electric Fences On Farms Are 'Deathtraps'

Homemade electric fences have been described as deathtraps on the farm.

M. L. Mumgaard, rural electrification specialist at the University of Nebraska, warned that such unsafe fences should be removed from every community and farm.

The National Safety Council has suggested that no fence be energized from any electrical source, except through a controller that meets the requirements of a recognized testing agency such as Underwriters Laboratories.

Approved controllers provide for a current that is limited to a few hundredths of an ampere and is only permitted on the line for a fraction of a second. The "off-period" must be sufficient to permit a person to release himself from the fence.

Small children are involved in over half the electric fence tragedies. Few people realize that even a very small current can cause death. The current used by a small seven or 10 watt bulb is enough to electrocute a person. Victims "freeze" to the conductor and they cannot release themselves unless the current is shut off.

The National Safety Council suggests the following safeguards:

1. Avoid locating an electric fence near a good ground, such as a pipe line, pump, stock tank, pond, irrigation ditch or other normally wet ground.
2. Always prominently identify electric fences, especially those near buildings, property lines or roads.
3. Never depend upon an electric fence to restrain bulls or other vicious animals.

Apples Ripe And Ready To Go

Nebraska City Apple Harvest Good; Freeze Effect Lasting

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. With the ravages of a 13-year-old blow from the weather only now being erased, the orchards in this apple-raising section of the state will probably be larger in the next few years. But the chances are they will not reach the average totaled in the heyday of the 1920s.

This is the opinion of at least one veteran apple producer in this area. Grove Porter, who operates an orchard business on the west edge of Nebraska City, pointed out that trees which were planned to replace those lost in the famous 1940 Armistice Day freeze will start coming into production in the next few years. "This will raise production but it still won't be as high as it was in the 20s."

Porter pointed out that the early years of the century and the period after the first world war saw the heaviest boom in apple orchard establishment. During these periods of planting orchards were established up and down this part of the state

Hruska To Speak At New Schuyler Hospital Event

SCHUYLER, Neb. — The dedication for the new Schuyler Hospital is set for Sunday, Oct. 11. The program will start at 1 p.m. and the principal speaker will be Congressman Roman Hruska.

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce here are assisting in the program. Verne A. Pangborn, director of the hospital division of the State Department of Health, will formally present the license for operating the new hospital.

The official opening day at the hospital has not been set, but it is expected that the hospital will open for patients shortly after the dedication.

Le Roy Ellsworth Funeral Tuesday

YORK, Neb. — Funeral services are tentatively scheduled for Tuesday for Le Roy Ellsworth, 67, of York, who died of a heart attack in his car at Seward Friday night.

His body was found in the car about midnight. Ellsworth had been a salesman for 27 years for the Donald Co. of Grand Island, although he had lived in York.

Survivors include his widow.

DAV To Seek Funds Boost

KEARNEY, Neb. — (Lincoln Star Special) — Members of the Nebraska Disabled American Veterans will be asked by their organization to urge Nebraska congressmen and senators to increase the amount of appropriations for disabled veteran care.

John C. McCarthy, state DAV commander and national service officer for the group, said the state executive committee, meeting Sunday, voted to ask all members and chapters in the state to write letters or send telegrams to the Nebraska representatives asking them to support increased appropriations.

McCarthy pointed out that the amount of funds has been cut $6,000 in the next fiscal period for Nebraska medical care. This is a result of an economy drive on the part of the administration, McCarthy said.

The Nebraska DAV Auxiliary, meeting at Kearney at the same time, voted to support the stand taken by the executive committee.

Bassett Schedules 13th Annual Sale Of Sandhills Cattle

BASSETT, Neb. (AP) — Nearly 3,600 of the best Sandhills cattle will be offered at the 13th annual sale of the Sandhills Cattle Association here Oct. 2 and 3. The event, one of the largest in north central Nebraska, is expected to attract cattle buyers from a wide area. Last year 19 buyers came from as far as Pennsylvania.

Of the 2,800 cattle to be offered, 1,600 are yearlings, 800 spring calves, 150 fall calves, 225 are two-year-olds and 25 three-year-olds.

All cattle will be consigned in carload or half carload lots. They will be judged and sorted and sold in order of placing, without reserve, to the highest bidder.

The Buffalo barbecue, which drew 1,200 persons last year, will be held Friday night at the Bassett auditorium. The sale will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Bassett sales pavilion.

800 Inspect Holdrege Old Peoples' Home

HOLDREGE, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special) — More than 800 persons attended open house Sunday at the recently-completed Memorial Home for the Aged.

Manager - matron Miss Elaine Johnson described the unique institution as "both independent and interdenominational." The cost of constructing the home, approximately $200,000, was raised by solicitation among Phelps County residents.

A brief dedicatory service was held under the direction of the Rev. Paul Martin of the Holdrege Methodist Church. He was assisted by the Rev. Paul Pashnel of the Trinity Evangelical Free Church.

The Gideon Society presented the home with Bibles for each of the 30 rooms.

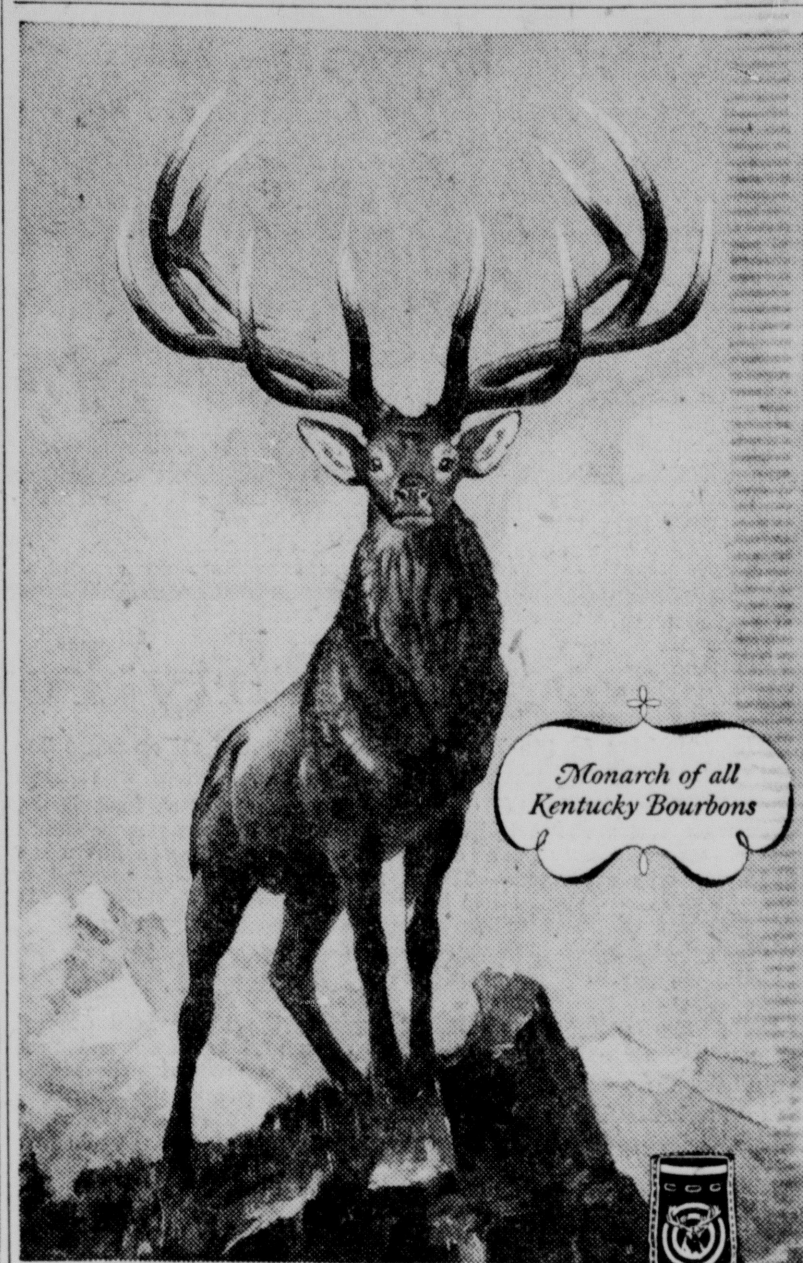

At the present time, six persons are living at the home. Miss Johnson said 25 rooms are now ready for occupancy.

Staff members include Mrs. Marion Cronk as assistant manager, Mrs. Annie Simpson, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Miss Florence Pearson, and Mrs. Claude Watson.

Seward County Over Blood Donation Quota

SEWARD, Neb. — Seward County residents recently exceeded their quota during the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile. The unit collected 162 pints during the stop, 12 more than the quota.

During the blood donation period 178 persons were registered as donors. Co-operating in the affair was the St. John's Lutheran Church, and headquarters for the collection were set up in the basement of the church. Mrs. Albert Evers, county blood chairman, and Mrs. Walter Gass, city blood chairman, supervised the donations.

"Four more Kaisers in our family!"

"Finest cars made!" say the Neeleys. Father and three sons have just bought four new '53 Kaisers.

Every year's a Kaiser year for the Neeleys, all owners of new '53 Kaisers. Successful dairy farmers, 3 owned Kaisers before... the fourth just switched to Kaiser.

Perhaps you associate Kaiser's suave styling with great city fashion centers, where it has won more international style prizes than any other American car—14 in all.

But many of Kaiser's 730,000 delighted owners are to be found in the farm areas, like the Neeleys of Iowa, as well as in the cities. And for good reason.

Kaiser dependability—A farmer knows the Kaiser won't let him down. Its waterproof ignition and automatic engine warm-up are on the job in foulest weather. Its oversize clutch and bridge-braced body withstand years of heaviest usage.

Kaiser comfort—Country miles bring out the best in a Kaiser. It is roomier than three of the most expensive cars. Its airplane-type springs and lowest center of gravity make the Kaiser ride as smooth as the Neeleys' creamery butter.

Kaiser economy—In city or country, you can enjoy Kaiser's unmatched luxury at less than small-car costs! 28.8 miles-a-gallon economy at 30 m.p.h. proved by a "Motor Trend" road test! See your Kaiser dealer and get the facts.

3 transmissions—Standard, Overdrive* or Hydra-Matic*, plus Kaiser's new, lower-priced Power Steering*

"Four Kaisers in our family, too," says E. S. Cleveland, California garage owner. "For economy of operation and performance, they can't be matched. No question about it, they're the best engineered car."

9 Kaisers—929,000 miles! That's the record of Louis Prante, Cody, Wyoming, wholesale newspaper dealer, who has been driving Kaisers 325 miles daily since May, 1947, without major repairs.

Special deal if you trade this month! Cash in on Kaiser's dynamic new $62 million expansion program by trading for a new Kaiser this month. Your Kaiser dealer is backing this program with extra-special trade-ins. See him today, and save!

DAVID CITY — Coach John Rumbaugh's David City Scouts took over the top spot in the eastern division of the Central Ten Conference Friday night with a 13-6 victory over Schuyler.

York and Seward battled to a 7-7 deadlock in the only other conference action as the western division marked time last week.

In a non-conference tussle Fullerton continued to demonstrate its strength as the Warriors overpowered Genoa 46-7. Clyde Haskins turned in a dazzling performance as he scored three times. One of Haskins' touchdown sprinks was good for 85 yards.

David City tallied in the first and fourth quarters. Bob Clock recovered a fumble on the Schuyler 27 in the first period to give the Scouts their first opportunity.

After losing a yard, Noel McIntosh broke loose for 28 yards to score. Dick Wood added the extra point. An intercepted pass in the final quarter paved the way for the final Scout counter.

Neal Ruckdash and Ken Styskal were responsible for the Bluejays' seven points which enabled them to tie the York's vaunted eleven 7-7 at Seward.

Crete's Cardinals captured their first victory of the season Friday night when they rapped Aurora 12-0 at Crete. The game did not affect the Central 10 standings since Crete competes in the eastern division and Aurora in the western half.

All teams in the Central 10 loop will be engaged in conference action next week. Albion and David City will start the firing Thursday night in another "east vs. west" contests that will not affect the standings.

The Scouts and the Cardinals shifted the game after both of the high school bands were scheduled to compete at Omaha's Ak-S-Ben Friday night.

In the eastern division Seward will journey to Schuyler, while York will meet Crete on the Cardinals' home field. In the western division Fullerton will be at Aurora, and Ord will journey to Central City.

Boudreau Inks 2-Year Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—The Boston Red Sox Sunday signed Manager Lou Boudreau to a new two-year contract.

The former Cleveland Star shortstop is finishing his second year as manager of the Red Sox. Last year he finished sixth.

This season he raised his extremely youthful team to fourth. No terms were immediately announced.

Boudreau managed Cleveland from 1942 through 1950. He was released by the Indians at the end of the 1950 season and signed with the Red Sox as a player.

In 1952 he succeeded Steve O'Neill as the Boston manager. Boudreau is 36 years old. He broke into one game with Cleveland in 1933 then moved to Cedar Rapids, Ia., of the Three-E League. He spent two-thirds of the 1939 season at Buffalo before going back to the Indians where he became the regular shortstop during the 1940 season.

As a manager he has finished first once, third once, fourth four times including this season, fifth twice and sixth once.

Boudreau reportedly was paid $65,000 a year on his first two year contract.

Reynolds, Erskine Said Sure Bet To Open Series

NEW YORK (AP)—Allie Reynolds and Carl Erskine appeared a sure bet for Wednesday's World Series opener at Yankee Stadium as the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers finished their regular season business Sunday.

Strong support for the home-run-conscious Dodgers narrowed the odds close to even money with the Yankees still a slight 6 to 5 favorite to win an unprecedented fifth straight world championship.

Impressive trials by Reynolds, Eddie Lopat and Vic Raschi during the past week set the Yankees to score. Dick Wood added the extra point. An intercepted pass in the final quarter paved the way for the final Scout counter.

Neal Ruckdash and Ken Styskal were responsible for the Bluejays' seven points which enabled them to tie the York's vaunted eleven 7-7 at Seward.

Al Rosen's Bid For Triple Crown Fails

CLEVELAND (AP)—Al Rosen's foot missed the first base bag on the last play of the season Sunday.

That kept him from winning the three-way batting crown of the American League — RBIs, home runs and batting averages.

He had the RBI and home titles in his grasp, but he needed to catch First Baseman Mickey Vernon of Washington in the averages.

Vernon ended the season with .33717.

It was the bottom of the ninth, two were out, and it was Rosen's last chance. He had singled in the first, doubled in the third, hit into a force-out in the fifth, and beat out a bunt in the seventh.

Al Aber, a former Cleveland pitcher, served three straight balls, then Rosen fouled off four straight.

On the final pitch, he bounced a rather slow grounder to Jerry Priddy, who was playing deep at third base. Priddy moved a few feet to his left and fielded the ball.

It looked as though Rosen had beaten the throw to first, but when his foot missed the bag he made the last out of the season.

If it had been a single, his average would have been .33722.

Hylands Card Low Score

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hyland carded a 91 to win low scores honors at the mixed foursome events at the Lincoln Country Club Sunday.

Tied for low net were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Joyce and Mr. and Mrs. Al Glandt, with scores of 71.

In the long drive on No. 9 event, Ted Sick won in men's competition and Mrs. Adna Dobson won the women's. Closest to the pin honors went to Bill Hoppe Jr. and Mrs. Jay Seac.

Low score carded for the weekend was a 75 by H. E. Van-Burg. Don Pegler Sr. reported a 76 and Irv Rucklos had a 77.

Five foot, 3 inch tall Dr. M. C. Wieland was the star of the weekend. He whammed out a 340-yard drive on No. 7 for a birdie and finished with a score of 78.

Joe Stydahar, coach of the Chicago Cardinals in the NFL, was a member of the 1936 college all-star squad.

'Renegade' Yank PWs Face Future Without Any Country

SEOUL (Monday) (INS)—Twenty-three American men sit today in the no-man's-land of Korea, their backs turned to their country, their families, their friends.

Why have these 23 Americans chosen to become renegades? What in the minds of these men convinces them that in the tyrannical lands of Communism they will find happiness and comfort they think they can no longer find in the land of their birth?

Do they consider themselves modern martyrs or are they simply men with confused and tortured minds—some of them afraid to return home to face the consequences of horrible deeds they committed against fellow prisoners?

American officials in Seoul studying the problem said there is no pat explanation. However, certain facts are known that may help to explain:

Most were captured early in the war and underwent long captivity during which their minds were exposed to insidious indoctrination.

These 23 are younger than most—about 22 on the average—and are men returning in Operation Big Switch explained the younger were the most receptive to Red propaganda.

They come from mixed backgrounds. None ever went through college and most never graduated from high school. But they were not America's underprivileged.

None are officers. Except for one sergeant and two corporals there are leaderless men—privates.

They came to Panmunjom neutral zone last Thursday to be handed over to Indian custodial forces as determined men. But they were tense and some may have been unsure.

Some of them later demonstrated against an Allied overture team, calling them "capitalists."

What Approach? With the background U.S. officials are wondering what approach to take when the chance comes to talk with them.

First they must figure out the reasons these 23 are different from more than 3,500 other Americans who underwent the same horrors of captivity but did not go over to Communism.

Roughly they classified them into two groups: the weakest men of all America's captured soldiers. These are men so weak and blind they can be influenced.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

QUIRKS

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP)—Postmen didn't even have to scratch their heads when they found a letter addressed to "Embrace, the pharmacist, Paducah, Ky."

The letter, mailed from Rockwood, Tenn., was delivered promptly to a Paducah drug store named "Hugg, The Drug-gist."

SAVONA, Italy (AP)—A farmer near this north Italian port city struck oil, plenty of it, while ploughing. He wishes he hadn't.

He broke an oil company's pipeline to a nearby refinery.

Now all the fields around are flooded with the plant destroying oil.

DETROIT (AP)—William Earl Murphy was granted court permission to take the name of Anderson.

Probate Judge James H. Sexton authorized the change.

Murphy might not have done so well in some of the other Detroit courts. Judge Sexton noted that two probate judges, one circuit judge, one recorder's judge and one traffic judge all bear the Irish name.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J. (AP)—

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP)—Harold Seaburg, manager of the Home Lumber Co., heard a ticking sound in a freight car loaded with tile.

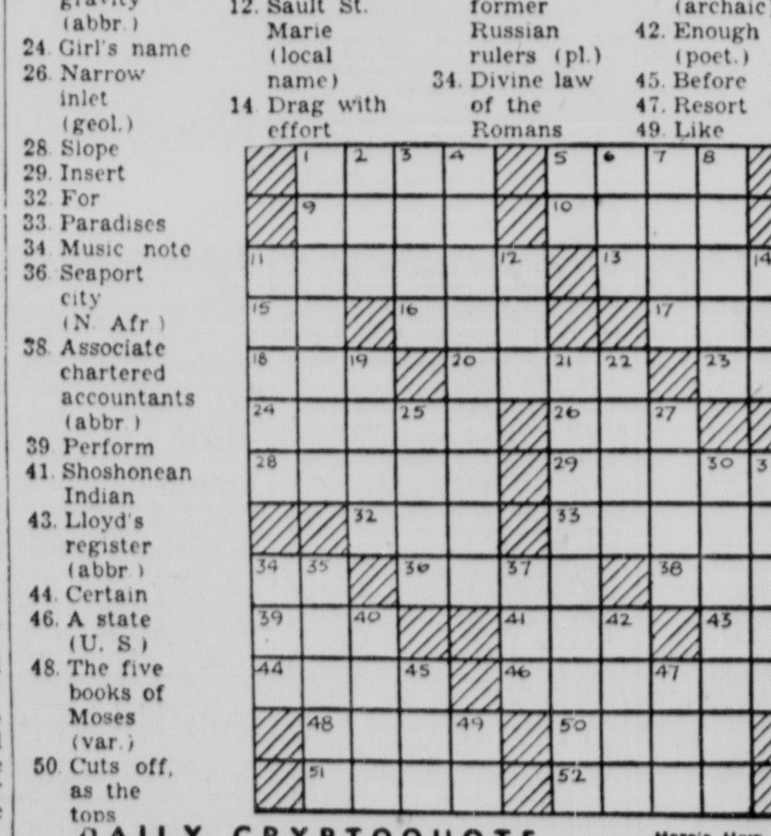

The recent bombings in Kansas City made him think twice, and Seaburg called L. L. Lawrence, railroad detective, city police and the highway patrol.

The officers converged on the car. Lawrence cautiously opened the door and discovered the "bomb" was an impact recorder nailed to the floor to register the movement of the car.

TOPEKA, Kan. (INS)—A pigeon pie fancier who stole six pigeons from a Topeka, Kan., plant was warned that he might not like their flavor.

The birds, all part of a federal government experimental project, are the property of the Johnson Serum Co. They have been inoculated with a powerful virus.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
